MESICK GENEALOGY

by

John F. Mesick

1888

INTRODUCTION.

Years were spent in gathering the facts of this family record. The archives of the early history of the State of New York, in the Capitol library, Albany, were consulted; and on a map of the Livingston Manor, the Músic house, the home of the original ancestor, was found on the Claverack creek. In Documentary History of New York, Vol. 3, p. 404, Veil Músig (ü is sounded e,) Mesig, a German Palatine, from Hunters-town, is named as a volunteer for an expedition against Canada, July 16, 1711. From this scrap the inference is drawn that the first emigrant of this family came from the Palatinate on the upper Rhine, of which Heidelbergh was the chief city. In 1719, during the reign of Charles Philip, the Reformed Church, at the instigation of the Romanists, was assailed with furious persecution, and thousands of its members were driven into exile, leaving their houses and lands to be occupied by their oppressors, and taking with them the few worldly goods that they could carry; and were forced for conscience sake to become refugees in Germany, Holland, England and America. The nucleus of this genealogy was furnished by Thomas Mesick, of Guilderland, Albany County, in 1840, then aged 86, born in Claverack, and endowed with good memory. John I. Mesick, of West Ghent, supplied from documents and traditions family lines that could have been procured from no other source. Miss Kitie Mesick, of Claverack, furnished a large share of the records of the Hendrick branch. The books of the Claverack and Linlithgo Reformed churches have supplied several names and dates. By extensive correspondence, peated journeys and personal interviews, the compiler has filled up gaps and secured reliable data. What is here presented would have been lost irrecoverably in a few short years had it not been sought out at this time.

Fitz Muzigh, the original ancestor of the Hendrick branch, was born in Germany in 1694, immigrated in 1719, landed at Germantown and settled in the Northern part of Livingston Manor, on a life leased farm of 168 acres, 7 miles distant from the head of Warren street, Hudson, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Glencoe Mills, and $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles East of the Post road, between Albany and New York. Tradition says that he brought all his property on a wheelbarrow; proof of the sacrifices made for religious principle. Here he built a small but substantial log house (125 years old in 1833,) still standing and inhabited. This farm passed into the hands of Harry and Walter Decker, of Peter N. Decker and of Zachariah Ham, its owner at the last date. Fitz Muzigh's name appears in a list of freeholders made out in 1720.—Documentary History of New York, Vol. 1, p. 424.

In the double door of this log house is a bullet hole which, tradition says, was made by a shot gun in the hands of Tories who attempted to rob and murder the old man, who was reputed to have some money in his dwelling. The Tories took him three times to the cellar and hung him from the beam overhead to compel him to divulge the hiding place of his treasure; but his neighbors rallied to his rescue, and the Tories were alarmed and escaped. This fact indicates that he had survived the date 1776, and had reached his 85th year.

FIRST GENERATION.

FFITZ MUZIGH. Born 1694. Died after 1776. Married Maria Catherine ——— Emigrated 1719. His children were:

- A. HENDRICK. Born 1715. Died April 3, 1809, aged 95.

- C. CATHERINE. Daughter married Jacob Young.
- D. THOMAS. Born 1734. Died July 26, 1782.

Doubt hangs over this relation, on account of the wide space between the birth dates. Yet Thomas Mesick No. 3, son of Thomas Mesick No. 2, said in 1840 that his Grand Father was Fiet Mesick; and the solution of this difficulty may be that Ffitz Muzigh had a second wife.

This aged couple lived together more than sixty years, and died upon the same day, November 27, 1834, and were buried in the same grave. The following inscription appears upon their tombstone in Claverack Cemetery :

"Beneath this stone two reverent forms are laid,
Who all the ills of four-score years defied ;
Happy in life, in death were undismayed ;
They lived together and together died."

ADDENDA.

REV. JOHN W. MESSICK, D.D., of Georgetown, Sussex County, Delaware, reports that that State is full of families, who spell the name as he does, that is with SS, who are of an independent origin, and separate extraction. A score of names with the same spelling is found in the Philadelphia City Directory. Rev. John F. Messick, Dixon, Webster County, Kentucky, reports that his grandfather, George Messick, came from England to Rockingham Co., Virginia; moved thence to Kentucky; and had twelve sons and two daughters, the progenitors of a numerous posterity settled in Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri.

NOTE.—On the tomb stone of Jacob, son of Fítz Muzigh, (see page 3) appears the following:

"Here lies the body of Jacob Mesick, who departed this life the 19th day of March, 1774, aged 57 years, 1 month &
28 days.

Behold and see as you pass by ;
As you are now, so once was I ;
As I am now you soon will be.
Prepare for death and follow me."
